

Re: RETURN TO WORK ORDER NOTICE - Yvonne Salarda Joven

Yj <yvonnejoven3@gmail.com>

To Andreia Karmelle Cabinatan; er@iploy.com; marian.feliminiano@adapthealth.com

Reply

Reply All

Forward

Thu 2/23/2023 9:11 AM

Greetings!

Boss,

To start with, I am very thankful with Iploy for all the opportunity and chances that was given to me. For all my life with different companies I can say that this is the best and the one that I truly appreciate. No words can describe or can imagine my feeling for being thankful. However, with the situation that I am right now, I decided to take a rest. With past few months and recent days I have been experiencing hardships emotionally, mentally and spiritually. I may not be able to tell in details for what was happened but what I can say is that I am in a deep of emotion and mental frustration or depression. I don't want to be the reason for my team's attendance or be the person that I am not anymore. I want to change and I want to find my self again. I want to start a new beginning. For now, I need to realize and to gather my self back. I want to be a better person and I want to give my self a time to heal and to digest all this things happening in my life. This may not be a reasonable reason for others but for me it is. I don't want to lose my self I have still a child that needs me. I cannot continue like this. I know that theres no enough time to ask that is why I am asking for your kind understanding of my immediate resignation today Feb 23,2023

I really apologize for this fast decision. I am hoping for your kind consideration.

Respectfully,

Yvonne