To whom it may concern:

It is with regret that I tender my resignation from being an Iploy customer care representative, effective immediately.

I realized that this line of business is not meant for me. I am unable to find that passion in me because the environment is new to me and this is actually not aligned with my field of study. That's why I decided to quit and I took another offer for me which is a teaching job in a private school.

I am grateful to be trained in this fine BPO company for the past three weeks, and I offer my best wishes for its continued success.

Sincerely,
