To whom it may concern:

I am writing to formally and respectfully submit my immediate resignation from my position as Intake Specialist at Iploy, effective today, June 30, 2025. After a year and a month of committed service, including training team members and taking on responsibilities beyond my role.

I have reached a point where I must prioritize my mental health and well-being. Unfortunately, ongoing issues within the workplace have made it impossible for me to continue in this position. I have experienced repeated instances of bullying, false accusations, rumor-spreading, and backstabbing, all of which have had a serious impact on my emotional and psychological health. I am particularly disheartened by the actions of Anna Plaras, Ethel Correa, and Joe Nacion, whose behavior has directly contributed to an unhealthy and toxic work environment. These actions have not only disrupted my ability to work effectively but have also caused unnecessary personal distress. Remaining in a workplace where such conduct is tolerated or left unaddressed is no longer sustainable for me. I believe that every employee deserves a respectful, supportive, and professional environment and I am choosing to move on in search of that.

Despite these challenges, I am grateful for the skills and experiences I've gained during my time at Iploy. I sincerely hope the company will take meaningful steps to improve the workplace culture and ensure that all employees are treated with the dignity and respect they deserve. Wishing the team all the best moving forward.

Best regards,
