Education

I got to experience a variety of learning environments, moving a lot during my school years. I attended both in person and online schools in the USA, including Shelby High School and an online program, and also spent a few years attending school in the Philippines. These experiences helped me adjust to new settings quickly. Along the way, I joined sports and learned to play musical instruments, which grew my teamwork skills and creativity. I'm grateful for the flexibility and resilience these experiences taught me, and I'm excited to bring that to my work.
